Spring beauties

Spring couldn't come early enough for the ladies attending the Sweep Into Spring Bonspiel at the Minden Curling Club, so they chose to have a little fun to lighten winter's weary load. As part of the post-curling entertainment, a number of men agreed to be models for a make-up make-over. However, in this case, the beauticians were cloaked in a sheet and worked from behind their victims. Nearing the end of their transition to startling beauties and enjoying the process as much as their audience are from the left, Peter McNeillage, Joe Larocca, Jack Taylor and Todd Grainger. Unseen, but just as stunning, was participant Bob McConnell.

Haliburton County may have its own radio station

David Sovereign

by Matthew Sitrler

It'll be a little bit country and a little bit rock 'n' roll. Plans to establish Haliburton County's first community radio station are underway and, pending CRTC approval, could be coming to you over the airways in a matter of months.

Former Broadcaster and Haliburton Lake resident, Dave Sovereign, is spearheading the radio station proposal and is hoping to hear positive feedback from any area groups who are interested in helping with the project. The goal would be to broadcast to every corner of the County, he says, and to produce quality programming with help from volunteers.

"I was at the curling club earlier this year and a fellow by the name of Don Cameron said to me 'why can't we have a radio station in Haliburton?' My reaction was 'I suppose we could.'"

Sovereign, who has lived in Haliburton for the past three years and has cottaged at his parents' here since 1957, notes that the county may be small, population-wise, but he believes his community-based radio station idea will definitely catch on.

"There are a number of them in Quebec, a few in Ontario and some in Western Canada," he explains. "The idea would be to create it as a non-profit community station that is staffed by volunteers from the area." Sovereign says, based on research he has conducted since last November and December, with the added momentum the project has gained since January, the word has spread rapidly. "It did get to Dysart Council last week," he says. "Everywhere we go, we seem to feel an enthusiasm. People think it is a great idea and that it should be done."

One of the first people Sovereign went to see was Haliburton County Warden Murray Fearrey. "I think he is a fairly well respected person up here

An introduction to the services provided by the Haliburton Highlands health care system

by Peter Forgrave, for the Haliburton Highlands Health Services Foundation

This is the first in a series of articles which will look at our new Haliburton Highlands Health Care system and what services it provides to the region. Through conversations with men and women working in all areas of health care, we will look at what forms of health care are available now, and what lies down the road as the system continues to evolve. Most importantly, the focus will be on answering the question "What's in it for you?"

The organization responsible for much of our local health care is the Haliburton Highlands Health Services Corporation (HHSC), which is governed by a local Health Services Board. The President and CEO of the HHSC is Foster Loucks. While his title is impressive, Foster much prefers to describe his role as being a combination of administration and leadership.

The Administrator is responsible for making sure that the Minden and Haliburton Health Care facilities have a smooth day-to-day operation; while the leader works with the community and the board to develop a system of Health Services that continually moves closer to meeting the needs of the community.

Locally, the most visible developments beside the modern buildings, are the increased Long Term Care facilities in both Minden and Haliburton, the addition of more acute care beds, and the continuing upgrading of equipment. Behind the scenes, the reorganization is aimed at making it easier for people to gain access to the health care providers and services. Foster says, "We must get to the point that anyone can access all the necessary services....and that access is already organized for them locally, or made available outside the county." By working with Regional and Provincial Associations, he is helping to fit the pieces of the puzzle together to make this happen.

Recently, the introduction of the beginnings of a Community Health Care Centre on the second floor at the Minden Health Care Facility is tangible evidence of future directions. The plan is that all residents of the Highlands will have access to a variety of health care services in the community health care centre such as physicians, specialists, consultations. Chiropractic care, diabetic assistance, therapeutic massage and access to nurse practitioners. As well, rehabilitation programs for cardiac and stroke patients will be developed. As Foster points out, if we have a number of patients going out of town for services, why not bring the services here?

Regarding long term plans, the development of a complex continuing care centre is one area of consideration. This facility would be directed at serving those whose conditions require a lot of medical and nursing care beyond what is provided in a long term care facility. Presently, these people are going to Peterborough or Lindsay. In addition, an increased emphasis on healthy living and wellness, and in promoting healthier lifestyles will benefit the community as a whole in so many ways.

The development of these expanded, integrated health care services are essential to making the highlands an attractive area not only for retirement, but also for attracting new business developments. The package of an area that in itself is desirable, but which also has great health care, educational, recreational, and cultural facilities is indeed very attractive.

These health care facilities do not come without a price tag of course, and although government money covers part of the costs, local support is essential. While the present campaign is reaching its target of covering the $5.5 million local portion of the costs involved in the initial project, Foster points out that ongoing financial support provided by the HHSC is absolutely critical in providing ongoing education for staff, and in funding various projects or programmes.

Expanded facilities, better organized access to health care services, an emphasis on wellness and a view to the future...this is what's in it for you!

Next...a look at the local Haliburton Highlands Health Services Board.

Let's put it over the top!

Bioregionalism students discover Haliburton

By Matthew Sittler

Haliburton County's population knows what it wants. It wants a pool, better than adequate health care, abundant sources of food, and a set of resources to first be interpreted, and then put to a myriad of uses. The area's community has used the surrounding geography as a mirror when shaping these defined opinions, and reflects a wide appreciation, on the whole, for its continued natural preservation.

Among others, these are just a few of the findings gleaned from a year-long set of fact-finding projects embarked upon by five Trent University Bio-Regionalism students working towards graduation in Peterborough.

At a year-end showcase, held at the Haliburton Highlands Museum in Glebe Park last Sunday, the Bio-Regionalism students presented their various, finalized projects to the public. Student Michelle Simone started proceedings by presenting her interesting history of the legacy of the Windy Pine Resort, located on Lake Kushog. Simone had divided this history, which reflected the resort's association with Trent University and its bio-regionalism program in particular, into three distinct sections, as she explained the endeavors the site helped foster over the years.

Through the U-Links office located in Minden, the Trent bio-regionalism students work on their projects, which span many topics encompassing the link between population and environment. The public is invited to propose project ideas that run along these lines to U-Links Co-ordinator Kate Hall, said Trent University Bio-Regionalism Professor John Wadland.

Wadland explained that the class has developed a close bond with Haliburton County over the years through U-Links and its other program, Summer Explorations in Canadian Culture. "We've developed an awful lot of friends up here," he said. "This is the 11th year we have been coming to Haliburton County and these students are serious and they do a great job." The corpus (collection) of their work is archived at the Haliburton Highlands Museum for public perusal, he added, and Wadland himself plans to spend more time there next year facilitating the collections development. Bequeathed to Trent University in the hopes that students would have a chance to study in Haliburton and gather a greater appreciation of the environment, Windy Pine Resort and its surrounding property has served as a main focal point for the U-Links students when they travel north to research these assignments. "The projects are approached from a historical perspective," noted Student Simone during her informative lecture. "A holistic approach that is not specific, but that deals with connections between people and the environment in its totality."

Valued at $2-million, the Windy Pine donation is the largest donation ever received by Trent University. The bio-regionalism course can be viewed as a study of the microcosm of what goes on in the rest of the world, added Professor Wadland. "Indicative of what the Canadian experience is like."

Health Care Services in the Haliburton Highlands

Health Care Matters

Trent University student Natalie Stephenson has created a survey to be utilized by the HHHS and Home Support Services.

For instance, over the years, the Trent University students have produced 8-10 papers on various Haliburton campgrounds, revolving around many subjects associated with the camping experience. Apart from Simone's Windy Pine research, this year's students tackled four other projects with separate subject matter, included here in brief:

Peter Boyce: Preliminary Analysis of Information to Support the Creation of an Indoor Aquatic Centre in Haliburton County

Under-grad Peter Boyce framed his research around discovering if there was an interest amongst Haliburton's population in creating a pool within the county. What he discovered, after sending out 2,300 surveys which he developed, was that a resounding 92% of Haliburton's population definitely wanted one. Based upon 600 of the surveys which were returned, Boyce said his findings reflect an interest in discovering a specific location, more than general interest amongst the public in creating a pool, and how a pool could affect this distinct population sector. "Pools are places people can socialize," he points out. It is expected that the Yes, We Will Build a Pool in Haliburton County Committee will utilize Boyce's findings and present his information to various councils when making their case.

Nadja Drost: Interpretation of Place by Haliburton Residents Through Photographs

Through photographs she had taken herself, Drost explained visually, how different social groups in Haliburton held differing views on a variety of issues affecting Haliburton's population. "Some views are based in an economics background and history," she said. "Others derive their views from a sense of place." Some groups agreed regarding certain issues. "There is a sincere appreciation for the natural environment, definitely," she states. "Be it as an economic resource, or just as a historical reminder." Drost intends to gather her discoveries in book form and hopes to make three copies which would then be available to the public in areas such as Haliburton Forest and Wildlife, the Haliburton Highlands Museum and a library. Drost's work reflects the contributions of 25 people she had interviewed in Haliburton since January 2001.

Carrie Swail: Food and Our Relationship With It

Swail developed a questionnaire after speaking with food-centered Haliburton industries and providers. The survey is designed to indicate what areas of food and related issues, for which people in the county are concerned about. These findings would indicate Haliburton's attitudes, and availability of food sources among other things. Highlighting food links with health, affordability and food sources, Swail hopes people will benefit from her questionnaire's discoveries.

Natalie Stephenson: Survey for Information About Health Care Needs in Haliburton County

A fourth-year Trent University Under-grad, Natalie Stephenson developed a telephone health survey with the intent to discover what people desire in regard to health care service in the county.

Done on behalf of the Haliburton Highlands Health Services Board (HHHS) and Haliburton Home Support Services, Stephenson's survey highlights the job health agencies are expected to provide, in the public's view. Through test samples, Stephenson discovered that Haliburton County's population responses were indicative of larger trends in community health care attitudes in general. "They like the fact that there are two hospitals within 20 minutes each way," she said. "Retirees especially, are attracted to the area because of nature, and because these services are available." Covering subjects that range from whether people feel there is adequate health care funding in Haliburton County, to whether they would like more information regarding palliative care and bereavement services, Stephenson's survey is intended to focus on the county's specific health care concerns and the attitudes affecting them.

Introducing the Moore Lake Property Owners' Association

By Matthew Sitrler

Sunlight dances off the rippling surfaces of Moore and East Moore Lakes. It's glistening in areas where the ice has already thawed this spring, and while the damp, muted tones of life have once again begun to emerge, there is something, if you've paid close attention, different in the air this year.

Perhaps the two water bodies even, have sensed there is more than a predictable seasonal change going on. Perhaps they also feel the presence of a newly-formed guiding hand intent on bettering its health, policies and organization. As the long, drawn-out, winter season slowly winds to a halt, residents of both lakes will not help but feel the difference 2001 is hoped to bring to their environs. A new lake association is born, with a new perspective.

Inoperative since 1995, the former association represented 24 years of valuable contribution from a myriad of volunteers.

While emerging issues concerning the lakes' environment have certainly helped rekindle a sense of urgency, the overall lake association vision promises to remain holistic in its approach.

Come July 7 - the date all property owners from Moore and East Moore Lakes and the Gull River from Moore Falls to Elliot Falls are invited to join the Moore Lake Property Owners' Association (MLPOA) at its AGM, - the protection of this natural heritage will jump a step closer.

Largely the result of environmentalist Hillary Brown's efforts, the newly-resurrected MLPOA will dip its inaugural paddles in the water this summer after a six-year portage which saw controversy and adversity stake claims in a wilderness that was, at times, not open to change.

"I had been wanting to start a lake association but had been busy," explains Interim President Brown. "I've always been very concerned about the environment and it would bother me to see shampoo bottles floating out on the lake and not do anything about it."

Brown says she feels people are uninformed about pollution, that in this capacity at least, the new lake association will bring about positive change. Last June 24, Brown signed herself up for a Lake Stewardship seminar, held at the Frost Centre. "It included really interesting topics, such as how to restore your shoreline and protecting water quality and human health," she explains. "They cautioned, 'your lake needs a database' so that if someone tries to put a condominium on your lake, you will have the scientific evidence to show that the lake will not support such a development."

Balancing this knowledge, and wanting to involve herself more in the County Advisory Committee for the Environment (CACE), Brown began attending its meetings last August. "For me, starting a Lake Association, is an invaluable experience," she adds.

With an acting Board of Directors already in place, the MLPOA has even held a 'virtual meeting' by way of the internet, in anticipation of this year's AGM, to be held at the Noble Motel on Highway 35. "I've actually had people volunteer for these positions," says Brown. "Denny Curry from up on East Moore Lake has volunteered and is now acting as Interim Treasurer. His wife, Carol Curry, has a knack for family reunions and formulating activities, so we have also asked her to be our Activity Director." Joining these individuals will be Director at Large Mary Ellen Beamish, and Acting Membership Director Willy Barbour.

A lake association is something that develops gradually, covering many bases before becoming an individual entity. This latest incarnation of the MLPOA can be linked to early efforts begun this past fall. Brown initially began knocking on doors trying to drum up public support for a lake association back in September. This was as a direct result of controversial severance applications that were being made on East Moore Lake by Lutterworth Township Councilors Mike Wahroth and Bill Valentine. It was a last straw that set into relief the urgent need for something to be done by somebody, on behalf of the environment, she recalls. "Initially, I didn't know about the severances," says Brown. "I looked into it, and went to the Lutterworth Township Office. I put together a little package, got in touch with the Ministry of the Environment and the Ministry of Natural Resources." Brown got her hands on a letter dated 1989 regarding a severance application which was denied because the lake was at capacity. "I thought,

New Lake Association

MLPOA President Hillary Brown

'How can they refuse a severance from ten years ago, and yet agree with these severances now?' Being concerned about water quality, pollution, more boats and more traffic, it rubbed me the wrong way." Brown says that once a lake association is incorporated, the clout will follow. "Numbers mean strength," she points out. "Politicians listen to groups of people who stand up and show concern for their lake."

'It's about time we have a lake association, is a phrase the environmentalist says she has heard more than once, from people who are already enthused with

by Matthew Sittler

Public co-operation, coupled with the performance of numerous individual policing teams who have worked in tandem, are being hailed as responsible for the Haliburton Highlands OPP Detachment's Year 2000 First Place Award for excellence in Crime Reduction.

Two years is all it has taken for the local detachment to jump to first place in terms of crime-reducing performance, pointed out Community Policing Advisory Committee (CPAC) member Jim McMahon. He noted that during the first full year as a stand-alone detachment, crime reduction efforts have garnered the Minden based police force its deserved recognition as the cream of law enforcement in the Central Region.

Contributing to this year's award, which separates the Haliburton Highlands Detachment from 14 others, are the following statistics: The local detachment has reduced area break and enters by 44%, motor vehicle theft by 43%, property crime by 35%, and violent crime by 30%.

Crime reduction in Haliburton County is a combination of many factors, noted OPP Staff Sergeant Bob Walli. "It reflects the dedicated work and effort of the Community Policing Advisory Committee (CPAC), which includes political representation from each municipality within Haliburton County."

Walli said other contributing factors included the excellent work specialized teams like the Break and Enter Team, the Haliburton/Kawartha Lakes Crime Unit, the Central Region Canine Unit and Central Region Technical Identification Services Units have done.

"One of the most important factors in solving crime is the co-operation of the public we serve," Walli noted. "In this area, our Community Policing Committees in Minden, Dorset, Wilberforce, and Kennis Lake have played a very visible role. We also owe a great deal of thanks to all the people who assisted the police by reporting suspicious activity, providing valuable information during investigations and calling in tips to Crime Stoppers."

Excellence in Crime Reduction

CKNU (canoe) has a nice ring to it

Wouldn't it be nice to be able to tune in some of your favourite music on a Haliburton County-based radio station? Or listen to a familiar voice, perhaps that of a relative, friend or neighbour, talking about events, people and the weather in the Highlands.

If former broadcaster David Sovereign has his way, that could very well become a reality.

Sovereign is currently testing the waters in Haliburton County, so to speak, to see if there is enough interest and volunteer spirit to launch a community radio station that would serve the needs specific to Highlanders. He has even considered call letters CKNU; (pronounced canoe), which he believes would be appropriate to the ambience of the county.

Sovereign seems to have all the angles covered. He says he wants to get a good cross-section of county people involved, providing ideas for programming and following through by producing and delivering those ideas. The possibilities are very appealing and limited only by the imagination of those willing to put their time and effort into such a project. And, we know there is no shortage of imagination, talent or energy within the boundaries of the Highlands.

Local theatre groups might be persuaded to produce anything from drama to comedy. Surely there is someone in the county with a distinctive voice like Orson Welles or John Houston who would be willing to narrate something like Welles' War Of The World to keep listeners enthralled for a half hour or more at a time.

The musical possibilities are almost endless as well. For the country fans there could be everything from Hank Williams and Patsy Cline to Travis Tritt and Shania Twain. Those who prefer classical could possibly tune in to hear Gustav Mahler or Ludwig van Beethoven. The younger generation may prefer Eminem or Britney Spears, while those more advanced in years may welcome the opportunity to hear some Lawrence Welk or Guy - whatsisname - Lumbago. Then, there's the oldies, classic rock and a host of other genres that could be explored. You get the picture.

We wish Mr. Sovereign the best and we're sure he will be swamped with volunteers with plenty of ideas, talent and energy to help him make it happen.

Still here after the change

Editor:

I am writing to clarify that I have not moved my constituency office to Toronto. Many may ask, why the need for this clarification?

It has been reported in a local paper that my office moved subsequently, a letter to the editor was printed saying that my Lindsay office was no longer in operation and my 1-800 number was no longer available. With recent changes at Queen's Park, I am now the Minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing. My Toronto office and staff have moved to the office assigned to this Ministry. If I was to remain at the previous location, 200-300 employees of the Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Housing would have to relocate, wasting time and taxpayers' money.

My staff contacted our local media outlets to ensure that they had the new contact numbers to reach me. This address change notice was then printed in the newspaper. I have received numerous calls from constituents concerned that my Lindsay office was going to close. I want to respond to this error to assure the residents of Haliburton-Victoria-Brock that my local office remains unchanged. I am here to work for you and I encourage your comments and concerns.

Residents of Haliburton-Victoria-Brock should continue to contact my Lindsay office, which remains unchanged at:

Reach out and touch someone

Got on the bus the other day and sat down across from a guy who was cleaning his ear. "Gross" I thought.

Then I realized he was also talking to himself - or rather, to his wrist. Which is when I clued in (I'm a slow learner). The guy was simply using his cell phone. (In a public place, in a loud, obnoxious voice, telling the rest of the passengers 'way more than any of us wanted to know about his abysmally boring day job - but that's another rant.)

No, the point I want to make here is that his cell phone was so small there was a danger of it getting lodged in his ear.

Why are cell phones getting so damned tiny? Years ago - and not that many, come to think of it - cell phones were the size of bread loaves. They were huge, ungainly things you could use for a doorstop. Granted they were ugly and cumbersome, but I think we've gone too far in the other direction.

Cell phones today are so diminutive they fold down to about the size of a business card. Which would be fine, except for one drawback: physiology. God is still turning out human models with the same size hands. Those hands include fingers that were never designed to hunt and peck through a cell phone number pad that's not much bigger than a postage stamp.

I note that one cell phone manufacturer is now offering a pointy little stylus that fits over the end of your dialing finger allowing you to punch one button at a time instead of three. We doan need no steenkin' stylus... what we need is a human hand-sized number pad. And it's not just cell phones.

The same thing applies to palm pilots, play stations - and hotel radios. Ever tried to change the station or set the alarm on the bedside radio in your hotel room?

Who are those things designed for - leprechauns? The communications business is going nuts over miniaturization right now -and it's getting dangerous. If you don't believe me, ask Antonio Mendoza of Los Angeles. Mister Mendoza, an attorney at law, has just been released from his local medical trauma centre, following the successful removal of his cell phone from his, err, rectum.

"My dog drags the thing all over the house" he explained. "He must have dragged it into the shower. I slipped on the tile and sat right down on the thing."

Bad enough, right? How would you like to explain to the Admissions Nurse why you needed to see a doctor pretty quick? But the story gets worse. It took doctors more than three hours to perform the 'extraction', because the cover to Mr. Mendoza's phone had opened during insertion.

That's right. Throughout the operation, Mr. Mendoza was...getting calls. "He was a real trouper during the entire episode" said one doctor. "Three times during the extraction the phone rang, and each time, he made jokes about it."

Mister Mendoza is back at work now, walking a little gingerly, but otherwise none the worse for wear. Obviously, he's a resourceful, outgoing, fun-loving guy - if a tiny bit clumsy.

Just don't ask him to turn the other cheek.

Politicians inclined to listen to lake associations

the notion. A bank account is already in place and a post office box is ready to be filled. Brown hopes that within a week she will, once again, be out searching for members while knocking on doors. "Our idea is to sign up as many people on foot as we can. We will also be asking people to talk with their neighbors about it and pass along the information," she says.

In June, a mail-out will be sent to the remainder of people not already signed up. "We have people coming up to us saying, 'We hear you are starting a lake association, where do we sign up?'" she says. "The response has been great."

A Lake Association website is being planned, and an association newsletter should be produced at least twice a year. "There is just so much work to be accomplished still," she sighs. "Our motto this year is 'Keep it simple'. You can really bog yourself down, because it really is a monumental job."

The newsletter will provide members with current information on things such as association activities, water quality test results, environmental issues, local wildlife, Minden Hills news, boating courses, lake and river safety tips and local history.

Acknowledging the most important thing is the members, and keeping them informed, Brown says she would like people to know they can approach her and the executive with any concerns they may have. Whatever the future brings for East Moore and Moore Lakes, outside of the planned regattas, golf tournaments, dinners, dances and pancake breakfasts, environment promises to be allocated a high stature on their list of priorities, says Brown. "I'd like to see lake capacity studies done so that we can ensure our lakes remain clean. I don't want to see what's happening up at Head Lake in Haliburton (they can't swim in it), happen here."

A lake is a legacy to future generations, both seasonal and permanent alike. A lake is also something to be looked after and cared for as any natural resource. Hillary Brown hopes that current MLPOA efforts in 2001 will be felt by her grandchildren years from now. Inducing a positive change in the present will let future lake residents become aware of the care that is necessary in order to keep its environment healthy. "I think that is what we all want," she smiles. "Isn't it?"

Volunteers would bring radio station local flavour and I wanted to see what his reaction was," he says. "I had made some minutes of one of our ad hoc committee meetings and gave them to him. He put it on the agenda and thought council should be made aware of it."

Looking for a tower and a location at the moment, Sovereign wants it centrally located so as to be able to broadcast to the far corners of the county. "At the moment, I can't say exactly where we will be," he says. "We want a tower powerful enough to transmit to the entire County. I'm not interested in sending a signal out to other parts of the province. I want to serve the people of this county. I want to be a daily voice for these people."

This would enable updates on emergencies, school bus cancellations or delays during winter, including daily weather, snowmobile and fishing condition updates as well. "All those things that are really important here," he adds.

Formatting to the particular demographic groups who reside in the county will provide Sovereign with the task of producing quality air-time with lots of variety. "It's going to be all over the map," he says. "That's the mandate of a community station. It's to serve all the people and ethnic diversities in your coverage area." Wanting to get young people involved with the project, Sovereign drops hints that he foresees their involvement in a daily capacity, perhaps after high school is out. "I would like them to program every afternoon after school from say, four o'clock to seven. They can play their music, talk about the things that are of interest to them, and all the things that are going on at the high school."

At the other end of the spectrum are senior citizens, he points out. "We would talk about seniors issues, health issues and whatever is of interest to them as well. We'd have programming for everyone in between too."

A radio station format would be able to broadcast news items on coming events, play a wide variety of music for every taste, and provide a central audio voice to a public starved for one. Presently, the former broadcaster is crossing the Ts and dotting the Is on the proposal he will forward to the CRTC, for approval. His station plan would include a limited amount of advertising and would provide volunteer jobs ranging from graphic artists to DJ Technicians. "One name has popped up that we are thinking about also," he says. "It's 'CKNU' (canoe), and that might fit our image up here pretty well," he laughs. "We'll have to wait and see."

Members of the public or groups who would like to speak with Dave Sovereign in support of the idea, can contact him at his home by phone at (705) 754-2459, or email him with their suggestions and comments at dsoverei@sympatico.ca

County students qualify for provincial chess championship

More than 50 players participated at the Haliburton County Chess Challenge at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School on Saturday, March 3. Many players qualified to attend the provincial grade-level championships in Toronto on April 22. Most of the divisions were played under round-robin pairings, exposing players to intense competition throughout the day. There was an unprecedented four-way tie for first in the Grade 6 division, so there will be a strong contingent from Haliburton at the championships in Toronto.

Players were awarded one point for a win, one-half for a draw and zero for a loss.

At left, Mike Lasitz presents his petition to get the Bear Lake Road plowed, to Algonquins Highlands Council last Thursday.

Resident: Please plow our road

by Matthew Sittler

A plowed road during winter would please 35 residents of Bear Lake in Sherborne Township, permanent resident Mike Lasitz told Algonquin Highlands Council last Thursday. "Other lake residents want this," he added, producing a petition signed by 35 of them. In January, 80 letters were mailed out to property owners who have direct access to the Bear Lake Road, he continued, adding, "The cost would have to be covered somehow."

Reeve Eleanor Harrison asked Lasitz if he had received any negative comments regarding his idea; apparently council is in receipt of letters not in favour of winter plowing as the writers felt this could increase vandalism of area cottages/homes. The road does not meet with current municipal specs for winter plowing, but it has been plowed by the Tembec Logging Company before, confirmed Lasitz. The permanent resident said he manages a route to his vehicle by snowmobile during the winter season.

"I didn't expect a yes or no today," he told council. "I just wanted you to be aware, and would like to be kept informed while you look at it." Council has to decide if the task fits into their priority list, Reeve Harrison told Lasitz. "How willing would the people wanting the road plowed be to off-set the costs associated with it, should it happen?" she asked him. Lasitz didn't know, but said he would check with the other property owners who had signed the petition in favour of the road plowing. Councillor Jim Hicks said there was still "a goodly" number of people who "we do not know how they feel about this."

Deputy Reeve Don Shortreed ended the deputation by saying that the Township of Sherborne had spent a considerable amount of money already in fixing a bridge near the location.

How substantial the cost will be to make Bear Lake Road plowable during winter is yet to be seen.

Protocol established for child abuse cases

Processing information surrounding child abuse cases just got easier for the agencies involved.

The Kawartha-Haliburton Children's Aid Society, the Peterborough-Lakefield Community Police, the Lindsay Town Police and the Ontario Provincial Police for the Counties of Peterborough, Victoria and Haliburton, have recently finalized a new protocol defining the practices of each service in the investigation of child abuse in the region.

Over the past several months, representatives of each regional service have been working to complete a comprehensive protocol to replace the existing individual documents which have been in place for several years.

"It is a major accomplishment and the first time we have been able to produce a single document - a standard approach - to service co-operation and intervention" says Paul W. Hudson, Director of Service with the Kawartha-Haliburton Children's Aid Society. "It will be extremely beneficial to the staff of all the services as well as adjunct services such as school boards, hospitals, etc. to know that interventions from police and CAS will be standardized."

The protocol now reflects the changes to the Child and Family Services Act as well as the Police Services, which were implemented recently by the Ministry of the Attorney General.

Algonquin Highlands council opposes Muskoka's bid to take control of watershed

by Matthew Siler

Following are the briefs from the last Algonquin Highlands council meeting of April 5, 2001

Letter of opposition to watershed limits move

Algonquin Highlands has sent a letter to the Minister of Municipal Affairs, Chris Hodgson, strongly opposing the District of Muskoka request to have a Commissioner appointed to study the possible expansion of Muskoka boundaries to its watershed limits. This joins a recent letter sent to Hodgson by the Corporation of the Township of Muskoka Lakes opposing the move as well. There have been no exploratory meetings between Muskoka and any neighboring municipalities regarding the target areas which include the upper end of lakes Rousseau and Joseph, incorporating lands currently in Seguin Township. Muskoka Lakes Mayor Susan Pryke wrote that a forced annexation could quite possibly bankrupt Seguin Township, and urged Hodgson to maintain his government's preference for "local discussions at local levels."

Bushkung Lake Property Owners Association (BLPOA) website request

The BLPOA has requested by letter that council provide numerous pieces of information for inclusion on the BLPOA's website as a service to area residents. Specifically, the BLPOA requested that downloadable copies of by-laws, and municipal contact numbers be included. Currently, the Township of Stanhope does not operate a website of their own. Sherburne Township does, and the newly-amalgamated Municipality of Algonquin Highlands plans to implement one in the near future. "A lot of the information they have requested will be available on our website," noted CAO Gerald Bain. Algonquin Highlands has purchased the names Algonquin Highlands.ca and .com already, Councillor Kerry Locke informed council. "Doug Meyers has purchased them on our behalf," she said. "As long as this association has access to the minutes to put all that other stuff on their website would be too much." Reeve Eleanor Harrison said council should provide some information, but agreed that the amount of information the BLPOA had requested was too much.

Look-Out Walkway to be dedicated to Jim Cooper

It is planned that Blainhope Township's look-out walking trail will be renamed after Jim Cooper. The mountain structure at the site was built by him, and is

By the end of March, the prospects of the end of winter were favorable. Although there is a lot of snow on the ground, warmer temperatures are here. The snow storms and squalls finished on March 14 and the remainder of the month was free of precipitation. The total snowfall for the winter, from November 1 to March 31 was 278 cm or 109 inches.

The average temperature for the month was -0.6 C or 31 F, five degrees colder than last March. The precipitation was slightly less than last March. The prospects are good ahead. We have two summers and only one winter ahead of us now.

Trivia: The chances of flooding in the Gull River are 2 to 1 in favour. For example: The total amount of snow we received in 1997 was 289 cm or 114 in. In May, the river was high. On May 4, the water was up to the edge of the roads in town. On May 6, there were 8 inches over several streets. On May 12, water levelled off and started to drop. Any water, on the May 12.

Special recognition

Wayne "Woody" Wood, right, was honoured recently for his dedication, volunteer work and advocacy on the Drag River Rehabilitation Project, by the Bancroft-Haliburton Stewardship Council. Derek Little, representing the Council, presented a plaque to Wood. "We decided that it was important that we recognized certain people who have put forth that extra effort,"

Course helps students deal with bereavement

- prepared by Trillium Lakeland District School Board -

The death of a parent is difficult to deal with at any age, but for teenagers, it's a particularly devastating blow.

Now eight Gravenhurst and Bracebridge-area students can draw strength from the six sessions they've spent with each other in a unique support group for those who've lost a parent.

The group came together under the leadership of Debbie Warring, a student services worker with the Trillium Lakeland District School Board, who realized the unique needs of young people struggling to cope with a parent's death. "There are very few services available for bereaved children and teens in our area. These kids are left trying to deal with complex and overwhelming emotions, and still function in school and life," says Warring. "I was seeing some of the students, and others were referred to me through friends."

Over the course of the six weeks, the students shared their own stories and memories of their parents, as well as expressing their feelings through art, hearing from a representative of a funeral home, and enjoying social activities such as a pizza party and basketball. The sessions were led by Warring, along with Linda Didsbury, an educational assistant at K.P. Manson Public School and Shirley Harris, principal of Muskoka Beechgrove Public School.

"These students are now going public with their experience because they want others to know they're not alone. Groups like the one we just completed can fill a very important void for these young people," says Warring.

Grey literature now available for research at U-Links office

by Jenny Sharp, Research Associate

Thanks to the help of the Haliburton community, the U-Links Centre for Community-Based Research's Grey Literature Collection is ready for visits from interested citizens.

The Grey Literature Collection is a result of an ongoing project to collect and store the grey literature of Haliburton County. Grey literature is any written material that has not been published. This includes reports and research studies, files and meeting minutes. It also includes personal letters and family scrapbooks. The collection currently holds over 200 items from all over the county. Some examples are the "Haliburton County Trails & Tours Network Strategy", "A Survey of Resources in Haliburton County From a Youth Perspective" and several playbills for community events from the early 1960's. We also hold several Trent University student papers including "Hali-burton County Business Development Guide", "Minden's Gentle Cavalier: The Life of Andre Lapine" and "Learning About Health: Alternative Health Care in Haliburton County" just to name a few.

Indices of information held in separate locations around the county are also available through the collection.

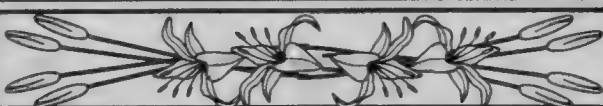

All of the items are on a searchable database at the U-Links office as well as listed in print for those not familiar with database programs. If you are looking for specific information, please feel free to call ahead to inquire on the availability of that information.

A resource centre relating specifically to Haliburton County is very beneficial to our local communities. If you are thinking of starting a business, we may have background information for you. If you are writing a report for a school project, you can start here. If you just want to learn more about the community you live in, browse the collection. You can use the collection to find out if a specific subject has previously been researched or to inspire ideas of your own.

The search for Haliburton County grey literature is ongoing. If you have grey literature, or know of any, please contact the U-Links Research Associate at 286-2411 or grey_lit@hotmail.com. Contributing to the collection will ensure that the items are preserved and put to use by community members and students who use the collection. In the future, we hope that community members will contribute to this collection as new material is produced.

Individuals interested in searching the collection or just browsing can visit the U-Links office Mondays, Tuesdays or Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. or at other times by appointment. The U-Links Centre for Community-Based Research is located on the second floor of the Minden Hills municipal office on Milne Street.

Penny proposal would raise funds for Dorset Tower

naming the walkway in his honour was thought by council to be an "excellent idea."

"This will be a lasting tribute to a great man who did a lot of work on behalf of the municipality," announced Reeve Eleanor Harrison, who recommended that any commemorative plaque they decide upon, should be larger than the 'finger-board' variety. The walkway lies adjacent to the municipal buildings in Stanhope Township on North Shore Road.

Dorset Tower Pennies?

Council will cut a deal with HighSpy Inc. that allows Algonquin Highlands to retain use of Dorset Tower viewfinders and sell pressed pennies bearing the Tower's likeness for $1 each. HighSpy has expanded its business to include the penny production and, under the plan, the municipality would purchase 100 of them to sell at retail. A die-cost of $250 will be paid by the municipality as a start-up fee as well, bringing the total cost of the purchase to $350.

The Dorset Tower viewfinders bring an annual revenue of $1,000 to the township of Sherborne, noted Councillor Kerry Locke. Council had initially suggested it purchase the viewfinders from HighSpy for $2500 each. HighSpy wanted $4500. "There's something about paying a buck for a penny that I find funny," remarked Councillor Tom Gardner.

Stair-Lift at Dorset Recreation Centre Update

A company called Garavanta could provide council with an option to the stair glide proposal it had been eyeing. Their product, a 'stair chair' that manoeuvres a turn, would cost $30,800, CAO Gerald Bain told Council. This price would exclude, however, a lot of the installation costs needed by the other stair glide model.

Councillor Kerry Locke said the Dorset Recreation Committee was "not in a huge rush" about the subject however, and would rather see the money go towards programming, if the balance wasn't met by a group in Dorset called 'the Lifeliners.' "They don't want to earmark the money for just the chair," she announced. More information will be sought on the matter, before Council sits comfortably with a final decision.

New Jungle Jim proposal costly

Councillor Tom Gardner relayed the need for a new jungle jim to replace the old one located on municipal property behind Stanhope's Fire Hall. Speaking from the Board of Management's viewpoint, he told council that further monies will have to be raised. "We have $13,000 - $14,000 already," he said. "It's going to cost $18,000." The Board of Management would look to get the remainder from council or try to allocate donations from some of the service clubs, he suggested. "It's something we have to move on," remarked Reeve Harrison. "For safety's sake." Hoped to be installed "by the first night of soccer," a new jungle jim would replace the 25-30 year old model in use presently. Initially, a jungle jim was to be purchased by the municipality at Home Hardware in Minden Hills. Due to amalgamation, council will now confer with Robinson's General Store in Dorset to compare costing. Whether or not the jungle jim falls under CSA approval will also be looked at pending a municipal decision.

Seniors appreciate return of spring after the long winter

Isn't this weather just great? It is so good to hear the birds singing in the mornings. They must be glad of the change of season as well as we are. The snow is quickly going and much of the ground is visible once more. There have even been sightings of our spring harbinger — the robin.

We're sure that many of you will be kept busy with the annual spring-cleaning. There is spring cleaning going on here too. Scrapbooks containing past Senior League columns have come to light, with one dating back to 1980. What memories there are in these write-ups, which will be placed in our library for some interesting reading. Who knows what else will be discovered in this clean out — we'll have to keep you posted.

In the meantime, we will tell you of some happenings that have occurred here lately.

The last days of March were well spent. Our monthly Birthday Tea was much enjoyed. What a wonderful variety of foods to eat — baked goodies, fruit trays, cheeses, and to top it all off, a beautiful birthday cake for all those who celebrated in March. We thank our hosts, the members of the Minden Lioness Club, for providing us with a delightful afternoon.

To continue on the subject of food (one of our favourite subjects) quite a few of us tucked into a fish and chip special luncheon treat, which is looked forward to by many residents.

Fitness does not always mean boring exercises. One can get exercise by participating in games. For example ring toss, which was won recently by Germaine Levesque, and lawn darts, won by Edith Russell and Violet Danilko, are also both great sources of fun.

With March leaving us, so did Phyllis Sutherland. As we mentioned last week, we will miss Phyllis and her wonderful laugh. So, with that we said goodbye to March, but are more than ready to welcome April.

The first day of April was April Fool's Day. How many of you were tricked by family or friends? Here's a little verse about that very thing.

"The first of April, some do say,
Is set apart for All Fools' Day.
But why the people call it so,
Not I, nor they themselves do know.
On this day are people sent
On purpose for pure merriment."
Poor Robin's Almanac (1790)

Thought we would share that with you. We borrowed it from our April newsletter, which is full of

by the Roving Reporters wonderful items. We must thank Rob Young for another great issue.

April is a new month with lots of activities planned. A lovely Chapel Service was well attended on the first day of April. Rev. Everall kindly led us in service, with Ann McAdam on the organ — for which we send our appreciation.

Our Residents' Council Meeting took place with fewer attending than usual due to some of us being under the weather lately.

We are certainly having lots of fun these days, with a group of ladies joining in a baking session. Eileen Barry, Winnie Barnum, Muriel Welch, Edith Russell, Hazel Gregory and Violet Danilko all got together and made oatmeal, chocolate chip cookies. Yum! Afterwards they reminisced about baking. This is always interesting and informative.

Our card players are still at it. This week's results - The two old hens (Marjorie and Thelda) and one young chick (Sheila, Marjorie's daughter) beat the two old roosters (Harold and Roy) two games to one.

We think they are having fun with us. We were pleased to see Margaret Foote, Emma Hewitt and Hazel Gregory out playing cards with volunteers Betty Hicks and Jean Cox. We think they are honing their card skills so you hens and roosters had better take note. More great exercises - ring toss - was won by Germaine Levesque and Mary Robinson.

We were pleased to have Rev. Wicks with us for our mid-week Chapel Service. His wife and her father joined him. Her father delighted us with his renditions on guitar. We thank them for a delightful service. Also bringing us beautiful music were Olive and Weldon McPhail, who encouraged us to join them in Hymn singing. They brought a group of friends with them who were most welcome. We always appreciate visitors and we were more than pleased to have Nancy Lee and her daughter-in-law Janene with two little ones, Jakob and Jordyn. Jakob is just newly born and his sister Jordyn is not quite two yet. What a treasure these two were and we were so pleased to see them.

Our craft group members, still busy as ever, are now working on items for Mothers Day. They are like the little rabbit that just keeps going and going.

We can't close without mentioning the Norland Hillbillies, who were here for our Pub Night and provided us with a great evening of entertainment. Although he was not able to play because of his injury it was still good to see Budgie.

Better sign off before we run out of room, but before we do we must mention our upcoming birthdays. Vera Stevens will be celebrating on April 15th and Marjorie Watt will be celebrating on April 16th. Hope you both have a Happy Birthday, all the best ladies. We must apologize to Sue (Lillian Millar's daughter) we erred when we mentioned your name in last week's column. We should have printed Sue Reid; we do get mixed up now and then.

So, with that in mind, we say goodbye until next week.

Around the County Town

by Nora Snyder (call 286-4450; email <mindenhouse@on.abn.com>)

Spring has sprung! Spring-like weather has arrived. The birds are back and the sight of them and the sounds of them make you aware of how much they were missed. Our clocks are ahead one hour and the evening already is longer, brighter and most welcome. Everyone is out in shoes instead of boots (or at least for us in town) and it looks like it is safe to put winter coats and jackets away. The kids are out on their bikes again. Shirley Wallace reported seeing a robin at Little Boskung and a cowbird at her feeder! It has been a long time coming.

At the same time, of course, we feel great sympathy for our fellow Canadians in Newfoundland. It must be so difficult for them to endure a severe winter storm in April as they did last week. Here's wishing them a rapid thaw after the storm has moved through. Now, for us, to get all of our snow gone from our lawns and gardens so we can get our hands back in the soil and do some gardening.

This Wednesday evening, April 11 is the Haliburton Highlands Genealogy Group meeting at the Minden Public library. The business part of the meeting starts at 6 p.m. and at 7, June Partridge will speak on "Is Part of Your Family Tree Already in Print?" The usual 'Bring and Win' table will add to the fun of the evening. Cookies and coffee will be available. Visitors are welcome.

Marg McAfee wants to thank all of the kind people who have cheered her up and done errands for her over the last while. The phone calls, cards, drop-ins and goodies are really appreciated.

Announcement

The Sunshine Sisters of Carnarvon and area will be hosted by Kim Tustin of Red Umbrella Inn on Wednesday, April 18 at 6:30 p.m. for their Spring Pot Luck Dinner and Silent Auction. This group meets the third Wednesday of April and the third Wednesday of November. We welcome any new ladies to join us. Please call Shirley Wallace at 489-3071 for information.

This is a wonderful early announcement of an annual event to be held on May 11. Sneaker Day. Can you just imagine walking the familiar route in gorgeous weather, through the woods, through the town? Now that is something to look forward to. More information will be available about Sneaker Day leading up to the day so keep tuned.

Wishing everyone a happy Easter weekend. If it is a time for your family to get together, I hope you have a fun time. It may be a little difficult to have an egg hunt in the remaining piles of snow but I am sure the Easter Bunny will find a way!
